For some of you, your journey towards self-sufficiency is just beginning and for others it is reaching its end. Your enrollment and active participation in this program shows the commitment you have to change your story and change your life. That commitment is something that nobody can ever take away from you.

While several of our workshops will continue to be held via the internet for this quarter, I am excited to say that we will also be doing some in person. Whether you attend a workshop in person or virtually the information is the same. Each virtual workshop will have a unique link so you must RSVP for each workshop you wish to attend at FSS@snvrha.org. More instructions on accessing the workshops is included on the workshop schedule. Please remember that as a participant in the FSS program you are required to attend at least one Self-Sufficiency Empowerment workshop every six months. In the event you need to request a contract extension you must have met this requirement in order for your request to be considered. Check out the workshop schedule for some exciting new workshops. You must allow at least 24 business hours to schedule a workshop.

You should be receiving regular emails from your Coordinator with information on various community resources, employment opportunities and other information. Please be sure to read these emails as you may find some very helpful information in them. Please feel free to share this information with your friends, family, coworkers, or anyone else who may find the information helpful. I trust you are all having regular communication and interaction with your Coordinator. If this is not happening please do not hesitate to let me know.

One of the main requirements in the FSS program is to seek and maintain employment. We will continue to offer a monthly series of job readiness workshops: Job Searching, Resume Writing, and Interviewing. If you are currently unemployed you must be attending each of these workshops. In addition, your Coordinators may be requiring you to turn in monthly job search logs. Failure to comply with this component of the program could result in termination from the FSS program.

Hopefully you have been able to take advantage of our new electronic progress update form. This allows your FSS Coordinator to email you a link to the progress update form prior to your scheduled visit. When you complete the electronic progress update form prior to your appointment it allows more time for you and your Coordinator to discuss what's happening in your life and develop a thorough plan of action to move you closer towards self-sufficiency.

We are in the early planning phase of our Family Day Event and Home Buyer Expo. Both events will be held in June. Be on the lookout for more information as the events get closer.

For those of you in the HCV program, FSS has a dedicated Occupancy Specialist who does all the rent calculation work on the HCV FSS caseload. Her name is Shanita Tunstull. She can be reached at 702 477-3436 or stunstull@snvrha.org. Her office is located in the same area as the FSS Coordinators; hopefully this will help reduce some of the communication issues you may have been encountering lately.

Please remember that our business hours are Monday through Thursday 7:00 am – 6:00 pm.
Martha Floyd, Resident Program Coordinator

Comp-U Dopt is a national organization that seeks to provide access to technology to under-resourced youth and their communities. Several times a year they hold a lottery in various regions in the US to get free computers to students in grades K-12. One of those regions is here in Las Vegas. You can register for the lottery by visiting compudopt.org/las-vegas and completing the online registration.

For those who did not know, April is National Autism Awareness month. In the last few years we as a country have come to a better understanding of Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD). The Center for Disease Control defines ASD as, "a developmental disability that can cause significant social, communication and behavioral challenges...problem solving abilities of people with ASD can range from gifted to severely challenged. Some people with ASD need a lot of help in their daily lives; others need less."

Having a loved one with ASD can create a need for more help. But where does one get that help? In Las Vegas, there are a number of organizations that offer services to families with loved ones with ASD. Feel free to reach out to some of the following organizations for help with diagnosing ASD, case management, treatment, and support for the family as a whole:

- Department of Health & Human Services Aging and Disability Services Division- Autism Treatment Assistance Program (702) 668-3271 (Helps pay for treatment)
- Grant a Gift Autism Foundation- Ackerman Center (702) 564-2453
- The Lovaas Center (702) 877-2521
- Proud Moments ABA (702) 766-9840
- Families for Effective Autism Treatment (FEAT) (702) 368-3328

Creating a life plan can help you feel more in control of your life and provide a clear path toward the things you want. The process of making a life plan starts with creating a document to record your thoughts and ideas which is easily accessible so you can review it often.

Indeed Article presented by Carol Hicks
What is a Life Plan?
A life plan is a roadmap for your life that helps you prioritize what is important to you, make decisions based on your priorities and move toward the life you want. It should provide a clear path for your life, but it should also be flexible. As your life changes, your values and priorities may also change. A life plan is a living, breathing document that requires periodic attention to ensure it accurately reflects your life. It is your own personal guide to how you want to live, what is important to you and what you need to do to achieve the life you want.

Why is a Life Plan important?
A life plan is important to help you take control of your life and your future. In creating a life plan, you identify your values, what is important to you and what, and who, you want in your life. Then, when faced with decisions, you measure your options against your values and choose the option that best aligns with your priorities or that moves you forward on your chosen path. Whether it’s a simple decision such as spending money on something you don’t really need versus saving your money to fulfill a dream of starting your own business, or a major decision such as a career change, a life plan helps you clearly decide what is right for you.

How to create a Life Plan:
Creating a life plan is one of the best things you can do to identify the things you most want in your life and develop the strategy to make them happen. Here are the steps to help you create a life plan.

1. Create a vision: Allow yourself to dream big. Imagine what an average day in your ideal life looks like. Imagine where you work, what kind of work you do and the income you earn. Imagine your relationships with friends and family. Maybe your ideal life means gaining new skills to find a more fulfilling job. Maybe it is honing your skills to increase your marketability and find a higher paying job. Maybe it’s working from home to spend more time with your family. Think about the things you want to improve in your life. This can include different areas in life, such as finances, career or health, weaknesses you want to overcome. Clearly define what success means to you and how to measure your improvement.

2. Perform a Self-Assessment: To perform a thorough life assessment, you need to be honest with yourself and what you want. A life assessment includes considering factors like the roles you have in life, your satisfaction with different areas of your life and your various strengths and weaknesses. Reviewing your life from different perspectives allows you to develop a holistic evaluation. Practice self-reflection to clarify your roles and satisfaction in different areas of life. Brainstorm a list of the different roles you play, to include, student, mother, wife, employee, co-worker, parent, sibling, child, etc. Prioritize these roles and identify the values you want to bring to each one. Understanding your strengths and weaknesses allows you to decide where to focus your energy; which weaknesses to improve or which strengths to highlight.
3. Prioritize your life: Review your list of roles and reorder them according to what is most important in your life. When prioritizing areas of your life, it's also important to consider how different areas are related. For example, you may prioritize family over finances, but some financial goals are necessary to take care of your family. Establishing that one is more important to you does not decrease the value of another; it simply indicates those areas you want to focus more attention on. This can help you identify your values and non-negotiables.

4. Identify your values: Allowing yourself to feel and analyze the difference clarifies your core values by comparing how your life is now and what you want your life to be will help you identify your values. The person you imagine yourself to be-with the life you imagine-lives by these values. Values become the measuring tool for every decision you will make. Decisions become much easier as you can clearly see what does and does not align with your values.

5. Establish goals: Establish high-level goals for the person you want to be. For each role and area of your life, consider the big goals you want to accomplish, but also make them realistic. You will want to ensure they are specific, measurable, achievable, relevant and timely.

6. Outline an action plan: Identify action steps that align with your values and will move you forward. These action steps are your ground-level goals for actions you take to achieve your high-level goals. For example, if a high-level goal is to change careers, a ground-level goal may be to obtain training and practice skills for the new career. Your action plan is the steps needed to work toward the life you want.

Hello to all! Clark County’s Parks & Recreations department will be hosting their annual Children’s Festival on April 23rd, 2022. This is a great event to attend with your family to kick off Spring. The flyer above lists the event details, location and contract information in case you have any questions. Thank you to all. Enjoy your day!
A budget is a plan for every dollar you have. It’s not magic, but it represents more financial freedom and a life with much less stress. Here’s how to set up and then manage your budget.

How to budget money

- Calculate your monthly income, pick a budgeting method and monitor your progress.
- Allow up to 50% of your income for needs.
- Leave 30% of your income for wants.
- Commit 20% of your income to savings and debt repayment.
- Track and manage your budget through regular check-ins.

Understand the budgeting process

Figure out your after-tax income: If you get a regular paycheck, the amount you receive is probably it, but if you have automatic deductions for a 401(k), savings, and health and life insurance, add those back in to give yourself a true picture of your savings and expenditures. If you have other types of income — perhaps you make money from side gigs — subtract anything that reduces it, such as taxes and business expenses.

Choose a budgeting plan: Any budget must cover all of your needs, some of your wants and — this is key — savings for emergencies and the future. Budgeting plan examples include the envelope system and the zero-based budget.

Track your progress: Record your spending or use online budgeting and savings tools.

Automate your savings: Automate as much as possible so the money you’ve allocated for a specific purpose gets there with minimal effort on your part. An accountability partner or online support group can help, so that you’re held accountable for choices that blow the budget.

Practice budget management: Your income, expenses and priorities will change over time, so actively manage your budget by revisiting it regularly, perhaps once a quarter.
There are many ways to discover, experience, and connect with the outdoors. If you live, work, or play in Nevada, volunteer with us and explore the amazing landscapes, trails and local parks that make our communities so special. Our volunteer program invites you to participate in showing Nevada’s outdoor place some love through beautification projects, it’s also a great way to connect with your kids by getting them out of the house and away from their electronics.

Show Nevada’s Parks and Trails some love by helping Nevada’s urban trails, community landscapes and local parks beautiful and our volunteer programs active. More importantly you can share your skills, contribute your time and enhance our lives.

There is a special partnership between Get Outdoors Nevada and the City Of Las Vegas where they promote a long-term stewardship of their neighborhood parks. Get Outdoors Nevada will host at least two organized clean-up events per year in each of the six wards. Volunteers can look forward to helping with park beautification, trash pick-up, graffiti remove and park landscaping improvements.
